

Education Law

The needs of educational institutions, both private and public, are many. From land acquisition to contracts, human resources to endowments and many more issues, schools are constantly dealing with issues that require counsel who understand and have experience handling the numerous variables involved in running a successful institution.

The Education Practice Group at Sheehan Phinney provides clients with an array of legal and legislative resources. Sheehan Phinney focuses primarily on post-secondary educational institutions, while also working with schools on other levels. The firm can provide comprehensive service to its clients because it has the resources and the experts in various department on staff to handle most educational needs including:

- Charitable Solicitation and Giving
- Educational Contracts
- Financing
- Government Relations
- Healthcare
- Institutional Governance
- Intellectual Property (Patent, Trademark and Copyright Law)
- Litigation and Internal Investigations
- Not-for-Profit/Charitable Issues
- Real Estate/Land Use
- Tax Law and Tax Compliance

Sheehan Phinney represents numerous public and private colleges and universities throughout New Hampshire and New England. Sheehan Phinney partner, Sean Gorman, spent 18 years as Associate General Counsel to Dartmouth College before joining the firm. Additionally, the firm is a member of the National Association of College and University Attorneys.

- Colby Sawyer
- Dartmouth
- University of New Hampshire Foundation
- Southern New Hampshire University (SNHU)